

THE ARIZONA REPUBLICAN.

ISSUED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR
BY

THE REPUBLICAN PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Entered at the postoffice at Phoenix, Arizona, as second class matter, October 1, 1889.

THE REPUBLICAN has its own special writer, connecting its office direct with San Francisco and Chicago, and through these cities with all the great news centers of the world. Besides the Associated Press report it receives more special dispatches every day than any paper west of St. Louis, outside of San Francisco.

FOR PRESIDENT IN 1892.

JAMES G. BLAINE, --- OF MAINE

SILVER, COPPER AND LEAD.

Silver was quoted yesterday at $1.02 1/2 per ounce; copper at $16.75 per 100 pounds, and lead at $3.10 per 100 pounds.

DEFEATS oftentimes serve a good purpose in that they unite and solidify the defeated party and thus enable them to more readily win in the next contest.

REPUBLICANS of Arizona should keep up their party organization from now on until 1892. Don't let the spirit of party fealty and patriotism die out, but keep it stirring and victory will be with us two years hence.

PHOENIX is gratified at the visit of such an excellent body of citizens as those who form the Grand Lodge of Masons of Arizona, and hopes that in departing they carry away pleasant memories of the Capital City.

ENGLAND's great navy seems lamentably weak, when tested in great storms or in ocean maneuvers. The warships are simply boxes for complicated mechanism, all of which may be rendered useless by a well directed shot or a rough sea. The fate of the torpedo cruiser Serpent is to be noted in this connection.

IN speaking of the canvassing of election returns forty days after the election THE REPUBLICAN should have specified "territorial returns." The Supervisors make the canvass on the respective county elections the second Monday following the election. But even that is too long a time. It should be done not later than ten days after the election.

REVENUE that the McKinley bill shuts out foreign farm products and retains the American market for the American farmer. The $250,000,000 expended in 1889 in foreign farm produce will now be spent among our own farmers. This is the principle for which the Republican party has been contending and it is the line of policy upon which it will fight the campaign of 1892.

WHILE looking about the city of Phoenix and the surrounding country, a number of the members of the Masonic Grand Lodge took occasion to visit the Insane Asylum, and immediately the Democratic organ of Phoenix opens its cesspool of abuse against Mr. Monihon, one of the directors of the institution, telling about how he had escorted the visitors about. The entire statement was manufactured, for Mr. Monihon was not with the party and knew nothing of the visit until after it had been made.

C. P. HESTINGOS, president of the Southern Pacific, is a shrewd man and a successful financier. His utterances naturally carry much weight. He has declared himself in favor of a consolidation of all the great railroads of the West. Such an open assertion is significant. An association, such as is suggested, would be, without doubt, the most gigantic in the United States, not excepting the Standard Oil trust, and would practically sway the industries of the West at its will. It is to be hoped, for the benefit of the people at large, that the scheme will fail of consummation.

IN Santa Fe County, New Mexico, where the Republicans gained a signal victory this year, and routed the old Democratic ring which has long held control, so desperate were the ringsters, that the ballot box, containing the ballots and returns from Galisteo precinct, one of the heaviest Republican precincts in the county, was stolen from the County Clerk's office. The Clerk says but two other men, besides himself, one his deputy, and one a deputy sheriff, knew the combination to the vaults. This makes it look as though one of the three was so interested in the success of the gang, that he added ballot box stealing to his former crimes. Evidently it was high time for the people there to put honest Republican officials on guard.

CALIFORNIA is at present receiving deserved attention at the hands of the Eastern magazines. The Century has begun the publication of a series of articles on California history, which will continue throughout the coming year, and has established a temporary department entitled "Californiana." Harper's began this month an attractive series of articles on the southern portion of the State, by Charles Dudley Warner, as a result of his visit there. In addition to these, the leading illustrated weeklies are also devoting considerable space to the State--its resources and its history. Arizona will come in for like attention by and by, if her people will but bestir themselves. In order to attract the attention of these great magazines we must first boom ourselves. Helena, Montana, Spokane Falls, Washington, and other towns in the Northwest are advertising themselves in the Century and other leading magazines. Phoenix would do well to follow their example.

TARIFF AND THE POOR MAN.

One of our most reliable and conservative journals (Bradstreet's) shows in its weekly comments on the markets how untruthful are the Democratic assertions that prices of commodities have been forced up by the McKinley bill. Men's clothing has been selected by the free trade press as illustrating how the poor man will be "taxed" on his winter outfit. The arguments are always carefully framed to show that the tariff will bear most heavily on purchasers of medium and low grade goods, while those worn by the wealthy will not be materially affected. The facts are just the reverse, as Bradstreet's of October 25, shows:

In men's wear woollens there is no feature of particular importance. Imported fine grade goods are holding their advance of 11 per cent.

The low grade goods apparently cannot maintain even a slight advance, because of the large supply which dealers are anxious to dispose of at once. What is here shown to be the case with woollens is true of almost every line of goods at all affected by the new tariff. The low grade goods will immediately be manufactured in this country in sufficient quantities to supply the demand, and competition will make impossible any advance in price except such as always comes to an industry as a result of an increased demand and an advance in wages. On the other hand, those who insist upon wearing superfine garments from abroad may be obliged to pay something more for the privilege. It is the penalty exacted from Anglo-mania for proposing to furnish English instead of American weavers with employment.

The same article, from which the above quotation is taken, says:

Great activity is shown in all lines of goods touched by the tariff. This is especially true of woollen dress goods and worsteds.

When the workman reflects that the "great activity" here referred to means increased employment for labor and better wages for his fellow laborers, that their prosperity will be communicated to the whole community and to the country, so that everyone will share in it, and that the situation pictured in Bradstreet's is exactly what protectionists have been working for and predicting in case the tariff were revised by its friends, he will have little difficulty in understanding that the hue and cry of the free-traders about high prices is dishonest and has been raised solely for campaign service. The era of prosperity upon which the country is now entering will shortly prove the benefits of the new tariff bill.

"SHALL the Republic do its own work?" Under this title Hon. John P. Jones, of Nevada, has issued for general circulation one of the most comprehensive speeches ever made in the Senate on the subject of tariff. It was delivered in the Senate on September 10, last. Those who have read Senator Jones' speech on the silver question will not be surprised to hear that his speech on the tariff is characterized by extraordinary ability and thoroughness. He discards the statistical methods adopted by speakers and writers generally, and devotes himself to a common sense and philosophical presentation of the subject, which is both novel and effective. This speech covers every phase of the question, and the argument, drawn from every quarter, appeals to the intelligence of the reader in a manner which is irresistible. We commend it earnestly to all who desire to understand protection, and the grounds upon which its defense rests. It is safe to say that no tariff argument in this generation so powerfully appeals to the heart and to the intelligence of our people in support of a policy on which their welfare depends. It is printed in pamphlet form with a copious index, covering 155 pages, octavo size. Copies may be had by applying at this office.

The Nestor of the Next House.

General Allen, formerly of this city, but now of Pinal, has been in the city some days attending court. General Allen was recently elected to the Assembly, receiving a tremendous non-partisan vote, and although 73 years of age, he is as hale and hearty as when he retired from Arizona politics fifteen years ago covered with honor and credit.

In conversation with a Citizen representative the general says he proposes to attend strictly to the economic problem in the coming Legislature and shows numerous instances wherein the offices of Territorial government might be administered with less expense without crippling its usefulness. Among others he favors an increase of the jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace to the end that the counties may be saved large sums which are now needlessly wasted.

He believes there will be no friction between the parties on the reduction of expense, as both have demanded this in their county conventions.

General Allen is a pleasant man to talk with, well stored with information on all topics gained from years of ripe experience.

At New Orleans, yesterday, burglars blew open the safe of A. B. Meyer, securing $4000 in cash and $30,000 in bonds and notes.
